Ten Spiritual Laws to Healing the World

Ten Spiritual Laws to Healing the World

Ten Spiritual Laws to Healing the World

I. The Law of Spiritual Space

II. The Law of Karma

III. The Law of Total Interdependence

IV. The Law of Inclusion/Universality

V. The Law of the Feminine

VI. The Law of Simplicity

VII. The Law of Exactitude

VIII. The Law of Service (Seva)

IX. The Law of Diversity

X. The Law of Self-Identity

First, The Law of Spiritual Space. Every state of being occupies space. This means that we need to work at creating the necessary spaces for each state of being we would like to realize. In particular, it is essential that we create the spaces for love and compassion. That we prepare for love and compassion; otherwise it will be impossible to become loving and compassionate. To heal the world it is essential to create the space for satisfying the needs of the collective.

Second, The Law of Karma. All phenomena depends on causes and conditions, otherwise nothing can actually exist. This is the law of total balance. It is also the law of cause and effect, just to say that whatever you do it will have some important effects to take care of. To heal the world we must create positive causes and conditions.

Third, The Law of Total Interdependence. Nothing is independent of the rest, and our lives are intricately and intimately linked to each other. Nothing can exist without being part of a total whole and holistic reality, which is much larger than oneself. These actions may be material or non-material, like thinking, and other subtle actions we may incurred into. In practical terms, we see the impacts of globalization on every one's life, so what happens in one area of the world has immediate repercussions everywhere else in the world.

Fourth, The Law of Inclusion/Universality. Nobody and nothing can be excluded of any human activity, even if that activity seems to be separate and isolated from the rest of the world. This law is based on the infinite space where the spiritual existence takes place. It is only in the world of matter, or as an error of the intellect that indicate that one person is separate from the other, or that one person can be excluded from the other. Inclusion is one of the most powerful sources of world healing.

Fifth, The Law of the Feminine. We cannot eliminate the feminine dimension of our lives, either as a man or as a woman. It is the feminine energy that is at the foundation of human transformation in this millennium. It is the feminine that will enable humanity to find a new identity, and a new road map towards a better future. Healing the world demands an equilibrium between masculine and feminine energies.

Sixth, The Law of Simplicity. Spirituality is extremely simple. Not simplistic. This means that all its dimensions and instruments are simple. This law is needed because simplicity is tantamount of innocence, which is essential to realize the various State of Being. This innocence opens the door to purity and to the realization of the fullness of emptiness. It is the foundation of ethics and morals.

Seventh, The Law of Exactitude. Spirituality is precise. It is not something that it is malleable and subject to personal opinions. The way to love and compassion is precise. The self-realization of compassion is exact and not something that it is at the will of each individual.

Eighth, The Law of Service (Seva). One of the fastest and most effective ways to spiritual realization (enlightenment) is through the service to others. This is why we see so many people who are genuinely devoting their lives to service. Healing the world needs to be served by everyone.

Ninth, The Law of Diversity. In the realm of the spirit nothing is wasted and that all, in its infinite variety and diversity, forms a holistic and very strong union. Uniformity is not part of the spiritual paradigm. Everyone and everything has its purpose and its contribution to make. And, the spirit manifests at the gross level in many shapes, colours, textures and sounds. Thus, the strength is in maximum diversity to hold the material and spiritual union.

Tenth, The Law of Self-Identity. Every human being, sentient being and holy being, play a very well orchestrated role and, therefore, all of us have a unique identity. As we take material form, this identity may be also found in each person's mission on Earth. This identity is essential in defining the purpose of life and giving flesh to a major road map of each individual's life. It is impossible to be without being. Thus, being means identity.
